ALUMNA OF THE YEAR—FOR 1973

with all due respect to
Edgar Allan Poe
and his friend Annabel Lee

By Herman Shakespeare
(Richard Cornelius '55)

It was not too many a year ago
In the state of Tennessee
That a Kerley-haired girl grew up whom we all know.
(Since her folks' name was KERLEY, so was her hair, don't you see?)
After graduating from Frazier Grammar and Rhea
Central High,
She went up North and got a husband by and by.
Then back to a plantation near Dayton, Tennessee—
A mighty good place to raise chickens and rear children three.
Next she discovered Bryan and made straight A's with relative ease.
Then Bryan discovered her and requested that she would please
Be secretary, then Dean of Women, Dean of Counseling
Services, too,
Education Professor, and Student Aid Officer—as if she didn't have enough to do.
Through fiery trials too numerous and painful to say,
She persevered by the Grace of God, experiencing His power day by day.
Whether at Bryan College, First Methodist Church, or a
Rhea County School Board meeting,

Mrs. Sheddan

She can be counted on for a well-done job, wise advice, winsome smile, and warm greeting.
And so this night doth the alumni honor go,
In this college kingdom far from the sea,
To the matron that we all love and know
As Mrs. Sheddan or—better still—Mayme.

Acknowledging her honor, Mrs. Sheddan appears with her two daughters and her daughter-in-law, (left to right)
Barbara Sheddan Posey '67, Beverly Sheddan, and Barbara McCarrell Sheddan '72.

HOMECOMING REVIEW

Homecoming week end was introduced with the alumni chapel on Friday when Dr. Charles Taber '51, professor at Milligan College, Tenn., discussed the culture differences found in our world today and the importance of understanding these differences when communicating the Gospel to people of another culture.

Friday night's sports entertainment provided opportunity for alumni visitors to see the Lions in basketball action for 1973-74 and allowed the alumni-faculty team to defeat the intramural "all stars." The alumni soccer team which played the junior varsity on Saturday morning surrendered to a 1-0 victory for the students.

Outdoor breakfast on the bluff on Saturday was served to over a hundred alumni and seniors in a surrounding of fall color glory on a balmy day. At the business meeting held also on the bluff, vice president Ralph Green '56 was chairman to call for secretary's and treasurer's reports and also an explanation by President Mercer on the revised plans and increased promotion for the Rudd Memorial Chapel.

One major decision of the business meeting was the acceptance of the resignation of Charles Westgate as alumni association president, because of the difficulty of assuming the responsibility since his move to Pennsylvania. Vice president Ralph Green was advanced to the position of president, and Raymond Holmes '59, an elementary teacher in Spring City, Tenn., was elected to the vice presidency.

The afternoon soccer game with Covenant College ended in a scoreless tie but was in spirit a victory for the Bryan Lions who have often been overcome by the Covenant Scots. The honor as Homecoming Queen was bestowed on Nancy Nofsinger, class of 1974, by 1973 Queen Rozlind Fitzenreider.

The Homecoming banquet found its theme in the life of William Jennings Bryan with a historical narrative by professor William Ketchersid, an interlude of music by an instrumental ensemble who played "Bryan's Campaign March" written for the 1896 election, and a drama club production from "The Wizard of Oz." Dr. Robert Spoede, another history professor, explained the relationship of the character of the play to the events and life of Mr. Bryan.

Both students and alumni enjoyed the after-banquet amateur movie prepared by the class of 1974 for the 1973 junior-senior banquet under the title, "Pistols and Petticoats," and reviewed in the last alumni bulletin.

The college choir and madrigal singers directed by Dr. James Greasby presented the Sunday afternoon vesper program of sacred music which was interspersed with vocal solos.

"It was good to see all the physical improvements and to realize that the spiritual emphasis at Bryan is as strong as ever," summarized one alumna after her visit at the recent Homecoming.

Alumna Writes Moody Documentary Series

Rosalie deRosset '69, staff member of Radio Station WMBI and teacher at Moody Bible Institute, recently completed a second documentary series entitled, "They'll Know We Are Christians," to be aired over Moody's radio stations, WMBI-AM, WCRF, WDLN, and WMBW, beginning January 1974.

This 26-part series covers the nature and function of true Christianity and explores the primary aim of the church—to live to the praise and glory of God through love-filled individual lives. The speakers used were Dr. Earl Raddmacher, Dr. Warren Wiersbe, Ray Stedman, Francis Schaeffer, Robert Saucy, Howard Hendricks, Dr. Charles Ryrie, and others.

In explaining her work, Rosie writes, "A documentary series is a major writing effort. The writer works with a producer. The producer interviews the speakers, or gets permissions to use part of sermons, then compiles all this material on tape and gives the tape to the writer. The writer's job is to take the raw material and fit it together, writing openings, closings, transitions, summaries, in essence everything but what the speakers say. Each transition must contain something of the speaker who has just been heard and an introduction to what the next speaker will say . . . ."

"In addition to this, the writer must often do research into the content of the program, become familiar with books written on the subject and with applicable Scripture. And . . . the writer may also sit in on interviews and production of the program . . . ."

"It is the second documentary series I have done. The first was a 13-part series on the occult called "The Power of Darkness," aired a year ago and also again this summer. The response to this was overwhelming, because of current interest in this subject."

Levengood Family Reunion

The Levengood family, including Dr. and Mrs. A. J. Levengood and their five children—Paul, Mark, Grace, Miriam, and Albert—who came to Tennessee in 1938 to establish the Tennessee Mountain Mission, had a reunion this summer which marked the 35th anniversary of their arrival in Dayton. Their meeting was at Cumberland Springs Bible Camp, where Paul Levengood is director and Mark Levengood, a missionary to South Africa, was one of the speakers. The reunion also gave special recognition to the 25th wedding anniversary of Mark and Joan Levengood. Absent from the family celebration were "Pop" Levengood, who died in 1956, and Grace Levengood Bennett and her family, who reside in Cleveland, Ohio.

All five of the Levengood children are active in Christian work after having had college training at Bryan—three of them and two of their spouses are graduates of Bryan. Three of the grandchildren are also Bryanites—Karen, daughter of Albert and Joyce, had one year at Bryan; Jerry, son of Paul and Lillian, is now in his junior year; and Jon Bennett, son of Robert and Grace Levengood Bennett, is a sophomore. This family participation at Bryan is one of the largest on record—rivaled only by the Lewis Llewellyn family, where both parents, five children, and three spouses are Bryan alumni.

The following sketch summarizes the location and service of the five Levengood children who came to Tennessee 35 years ago.

Paul x'42 and Lillian (Hummel) '40 direct the Tennessee Mountain Mission which operates the summer program at Cumberland Springs Bible Camp for children and youth of East Tennessee. Paul is also a member of the Dayton City Commission and is serving his second four-year appointment to the position of Mayor of Dayton. They have five children—Gene, Joy, Jerry,

David, and Ann. Gene and Joy are married, and Gene is the father of the only fourth generation representative, Brian Levengood.

Grace '42 is married to Robert Bennett, an employee of the Cleveland Electric Illuminating Co. They are active in the fellowship and work of the Little Church in the Vale at Gates Mills, Ohio, in the Cleveland area. They have two sons, Jonathan and Richard. "Mom" Levengood is making her home at present with Grace and her family.

Mark '42 and Joan have been missionaries in South Africa ever since they were married. They serve under the board of Christian Missions to Many Lands. Their two older children, Linda and John, remained in Africa to continue studies in nurse's training and university, while their youngest son, Jimmy, came with his parents on their 1973 furlough.

Miriam x'57 is a graduate of Midwest Bible College of St. Louis, and has served as secretary in a number of Christian organizations including her alma mater, which later moved to Kansas City and became Calvary Bible College. More recently she took graduate studies at Trinity Evangelical School of Divinity and this fall began teaching Christian education at Appalachian Bible Institute in Bradley, W. Va. She also assists in the Christian Service department.

Albert '52 and Joyce (Cooper) '52 have spent most of their married life in Dayton, where Albert is now pastor of the Cranmore Cove Baptist Church and is Bible teacher in public schools in Athens, Tenn. Joyce is principal of Walden's Ridge Elementary School near Dayton. They have three daughters, Karen, Kathy, and Karla.
